

whether the free colored people of the United States, so far as individuals may desire, should not be included in this colonization. He also recommends the annexation of territory for the purpose of colonization, and intimates, in one of his peculiar interrogatories, that the expediency of his scheme of colonization amounts to "an absolute necessity—that without which the Government cannot be perpetuated." The old radical anti-slavery opponents of the policy of colonization, who have almost fancied themselves in possession of the Government, will be startled and infuriated by this downright Presidential endorsement of the doctrines they have so strenuously combated. We are inclined to approve the policy of colonization, but are of the opinion that we have already territory well adapted to the purpose. What climate more congenial to the slaves than that of the South Carolina and Georgia sea islands, and the peninsula of Florida? As for South Carolina, it would be political and poetic justice if her sacred soil should become peopled by liberated slaves.

The substance of that which the President has to say, on the policy to be adopted for the suppression of insurrection, is that he has been "anxious and careful" that the war for that purpose "shall not degenerate into a violent and remorseless revolutionary struggle." He has, therefore, obeying "dictates of prudence and the obligations of the law," adhered to the terms of the constitution act. He promises to duly consider a new law on that subject, and admonishes Congress that we should not be in haste in adopting "radical and extreme measures." He says, and we doubt not with the utmost sincerity, that he has in every case "thought it proper to keep the integrity of the Union prominent, as the primary object of the war on our part." This is all right, so far as it goes, but it does not go far enough; and the most intelligent people of the country will probably be of the opinion that in the President's anxiety not to be hasty, he has been too slow.

The omission to discuss the "domestic controversy" out of which the war has sprung, and the quaint Latinian phraseology with which he takes leave of that subject, are charming. The review of the progress of the war is not felicitous, and some of the statements made are not distinguished for exact accordance with the facts. Few readers will suppress a smile at the sort of reference that is made to the retirement of General Scott and the appointment of General McClellan as General in Chief of the army. The professed paragraph, in which we are treated to a discussion of the proposition that "one had general is better than two good ones," is especially entertaining. The intention probably was to make a very direct notice of the evils which had been endured when General Scott and McClellan were both in command, but it would be cruelly as well as inconsistent with the remark about "two good generals," to draw the inference that the President congratulates himself upon having only "one bad general" in McClellan. In fact, Seward ought to have revised that paragraph.

From Washington.
Tribune's Correspondence.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The President avows his purpose to adhere to a cautious and prudent policy in relation to foreign affairs. There need be no apprehensions of a recurrence of hostilities between the United States and Great Britain, for unless the British government should seek a pretext for war there is no ground for serious difficulties. The Government feels no anxiety on this subject, believing that a temperate policy will win friendly relations between the two countries.
A caucus of the Republican members of Congress will be held to-morrow night, for the purpose of agreeing upon a line of policy in reference to the slave question.
It is expected that the House investigating Committee will report on Monday.

Arrival of Arms—Important from Port Royal.
NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The steamer Bavaria arrived to-day. She brought 60,000 stand of arms, purchased in Belgium for the United States government.
A letter from Port Royal says, the 79th New York Regiment made a reconnaissance toward Charleston, capturing three batteries and spiking the guns. They returned after having approached within twenty miles of Charleston.

Kentucky Legislature.
FRANKFORT, Dec. 6.—In the Legislature E. F. Barnes (Disunion), of Owen county, offered a series of resolutions, including a demand on the Federal Government for the return to Kentucky of ex-Governor Morehead and other political prisoners, and affirming that the President's message foreshadowed the impossibility of preserving or reconstructing the Federal Union. Referred to the committee on Federal Relations.

From Missouri.
SEALIA, Dec. 5.—Yesterday a party of exasperated citizens of all parties attacked a gang of returned rebels from Price's army, under Captains Young and Wheatley, near Dunkburg, about twenty miles west of here, killing seven and wounding ten of them. Among the killed was Captain Young. None of the citizens were killed or severely wounded. Three wounded rebels have since died.
ROLLA, Dec. 6.—Advices from the southwest say that McCulloch has gone into winter quarters on Pea Ridge, near Bentonville, Benton county, Arkansas, where he is putting up barracks for his troops.

Nothing definite is known of Price's movements.
Gen. McBride was at Springfield with two thousand men on Sunday last.

Recognizing the Independence of Hayti and Liberia.

The recommendation of the President to Congress to acknowledge the independence of Hayti and Liberia, and receive them officially into the family of nations, we regard as peculiarly injudicious and unfortunate. They are negro States, one of which achieved its independence by massacring and exiling all the whites residing on it. Hayti has been independent of any but negro control for sixty years, yet during that time, although we have had a dozen Presidents and Administrations of different parties, not one ever dreamed of formally recognizing it and exchanging Embassies with it.

Mr. Lincoln sees no reason for not doing what all his predecessors in the Presidential Chair, from Jefferson down, have shrank from with abhorrence. Fancy a negro Ambassador from Hayti, residing in Washington with his family, and receiving all the attentions which are bestowed upon foreign representatives, socially and politically, being invited to Presidential receptions and parties, for of course it would never do to insult a foreign Minister by giving him social cast. This would be introducing negro equality among us with a vengeance. There are grave political reasons of State that forbid these bestial negro communities being honored with any diplomatic attentions or courtesies from us. We might as well acknowledge the independence of Dahomy and of the Hottentots as Liberia or Hayti.—Ch. Eng.

LEDALE, Mo., Nov. 4.—The country west of here is again reported to be overrun with numerous bands of from 50 to 75 men, who represent that they are from Price's army. They enter every Union man's house and carry off all the bedding, clothing, and provisions they can find, and drive off all the horses and cattle. The larger gangs having teams and wagons to transport their booty, they will undoubtedly run to Price as soon as they can steal enough to supply their wants for the winter.

A detachment of cavalry left here this morning, and we shall probably soon hear of some skirmishes.
Major Pinney, the runaway paymaster, has arrived at Gen. Hunter's headquarters, and is still under arrest. His expenditure of $60,000, on his way from Springfield to St. Louis, is not satisfactorily accounted for. He paid out under Gen. Fremont's orders, the payments being illegal and improper, from the fact that Gen. Fremont had no authority to issue such orders. The money was not paid to any of the staff or body guard, and the inquiry has arisen, where did it go? The matter is to be thoroughly investigated.

Strength of the Army.
It has been officially ascertained that the Government has now in the field, in camp, and in process of formation, 600,000 volunteers. So stated.
